Chesterton Academy: A Joyfully Catholic, Classical High School

By Brittany Blanski

Many parents would love to send their child to a private Catholic high school, but it's either too expensive or too far away. Chesterton Academy was founded on the principle of keeping tuition low for all students and on choosing a location easily accessible across the southwest metro. They are proud to offer tuition that's half the price of other private high schools and are happy in their home on Hopkins' Main Street.

1 in 9 boys enter the seminary after graduating. Daily Mass is embedded into the curriculum every single day. Local priests lead the spiritual life of the school with the help of the sisters living next door. Students enjoy retreats, the adoration chapel, formation classes, ongoing opportunities for service, and a variety of athletic teams open to all.

But even more than the Catholic traditions and classical curriculum, what visitors most often comment on is the joyful, supportive environment. Teens (literally) singing in the hallways, no cellphones in sight, dynamic discussions in the classrooms, and beautiful student art hanging on the walls. With Chesterton, parents have not only found a school where their child can flourish but a school they can actually afford. If you would like to visit "the miracle on Main Street," Chesterton Academy, all are welcome to schedule a tour, attend Mass, or see a student play or concert.

With a thriving parish (St. Gabriel's) and a convent (the Handmaids of the Heart of Jesus) right on campus, Chesterton Academy not only offers a classical education but a dynamic community. Students at Chesterton Academy have an opportunity to receive a cohesive, content-rich education rooted in "the best of what has been thought and said." The core curriculum takes them from the ancient world to the modern world, with four years of math and science, humanities, and a special fine-arts focus with an all-school choir, art, and drama performances. Each year builds on the previous, so that by the end of senior year, graduates are well-rounded, articulate, and clear-thinking.
